Events:

In 2006 and 2008, two “Gender Days” were held nation-wide. These serve the advanced training of teachers and the exchange of research findings and practical experiences gained in gender-sensitive schools and gender mainstreaming activities. In Vienna, up to 160 teachers participated in this programme.

Starting in 2007, “Gender Days” were organized in schools upon the joint initiative of the Federal Ministry for Education, the Federal Ministry for Social Affairs and the Women’s Division of the Federal Chancellery. The Gender Days addressed the topics of stereotyped gender roles and prevention of violence; in 2008, they dealt with the subject of migration and gender, in 2009, these days were replaced by the initiative “Gender aktuell” (Gender – a Topical Issue).

Projects:

- Implementation of the gender mainstreaming strategy: In subsidies management an obligation has been introduced according to which applicants for subsidies have explicitly to define their gender mainstreaming strategies. As regards the award of public contracts, gender mainstreaming strategies and/or the measures taken by companies may be taken into account as criteria for the decision (award premium system).

- Specific projects carried out by the Austrian Public Employment Service (PES) for migrant women

  - Diversity Management as a tool of labour market policies aims at respectful interactions of people in a diverse social setting (gender, special needs, ethnicity, sexual orientation, religion, etc.)

  - The project Managing Diversity was started in Vienna in view of the extremely precarious labour market situation for young migrants and their specific problems. It is the objective of this project to create a better environment for the integration of young migrants both into programmes of the PES and the labour market. The Managing Diversity Project is implemented on several levels: information material for young people and their parents has been published in several languages, labour-market-related offers are made with special attention being given to the family context of the target group; appropriate framework conditions were created for counselling situations, specific measures are implemented in the course of training programmes, and diversity-oriented support is given to companies.

  - “Welcome” an integration project for migrants, comprising information material in several languages, brochures for migrants; assistance with the recognition of foreign qualifications and diplomas

  - INTO – Austria-wide integration project and campaign launched by the PES, additional budget funds earmarked for German courses for migrants, since 2008

- “Mentoring für MigrantInnen” (Mentoring for Migrants): Austria-wide project for women from migrant backgrounds conducted jointly by the PES and the Economic Chamber

Federal Ministry for Transport, Innovation and Technology

Projects:

FEMtech is a programme which was launched by the Federal Ministry for Transport, Innovation and Technology under the fFORTE initiative to promote equal opportunities in research and technology. The programme aims to give targeted support to women and modify the framework conditions in industrial and non-university research in a way that equally meets the needs of women and men. FEMtech is implemented by the Austrian Research Promotion Agency FFG (Forschungsförderungsgesellschaft). The FEMtech programme offers a wide range of coordinated and harmonised measures and activities:\n
- FEMtech activities: FEMtech supports awareness-raising, sensitising and visibility activities in the context of women in research and technology, including “FEMtech Expertin des Monats” (Female Expert of the Month), “FEMtech Expertinnendatenbank” (Database on Female Experts), “FEMtech Netzwerktreffen” (Network Meetings) and “Forum NaWi)(Tech” (Natural Sciences and Technology Forum)

- FEMtech promotion and funding programmes: financial resources and counselling services are provided under the three subprogrammes “FEMtech Karriere” (Career); “FEMtech Karrierewege” (Career Paths); “FEMtech FTI-Projekte” (Research, Technology, Innovation Projects)

- “FEMtech Wissen” (Knowledge): FEMtech provides relevant data and information, presents studies and publications as well as relevant thematic abstracts on national and international research activities. FEMtech Wissen includes: data, “genderDiskurs” (gender discourse), FEMtech publications and literature.

FEMtech Publications:

- “genderDiskurs” (Gender Discourse) includes contributions and articles on current issues and focuses on specific topics and aspects dealing with “Women in Research and Technology”. A total of 11 “genderDiskurses” have been published since 2008 dealing with specific priority issues like the current employment situation in research and development (R&D), possibilities for making jobs in the natural-science and technical sector more attractive to women, etc.

- In 2009 the “Staatspreis für Chancengleichheit in F&E” (The State Prize for Equal Opportunities in R&D) was for the first time awarded to particularly innovative enterprises that implemented measures towards improving in-house equal opportunities. More than 33 companies and research institutions participated in the competition. The brochure presents all nominees and award winners.

38 www.femtech.at
The Gender Booklet provides comparable and precise year-on-year data on the situation of women in about 60 non-university natural scientific-technical research facilities. Since 2003, the Gender Booklet has been presented annually at the Alpbach Technology Talks. In 2010, the publication “Brennpunkt NachwuchsforscherInnen” (Focus on Young Scientists) was presented as part of the new “Innovationsfaktor Humanressourcen” (Innovation Factor - Human Resources) series. This publication provides a summary of the findings derived from studies on topical issues like career promotion of young scientists. Since 2005 “FEMtech Expertinnen” (Female Experts) has presented 12 women each in research and technology. The brochure “Role Models. European Experts in Industrial Research”, published in 2006, offers an insight into the activities and career development of female experts working for leading European companies.

“FEMtech – Argumentarium” (Argumentary) contains the latest available data on the situation of women in R&D and more recent literature. Based on the frequently voiced arguments, the Argumentarium discounts outdated “explanations” for the extremely low percentage of women in R&D.

The “FEMtech Karriere” (FEMtech Career) brochure presents ten best practice projects that have received funding under the career-funding scheme. These projects implement measures to promote equal opportunities and support female scientists in realising their career goals.

Guidelines: a guideline on the gender-sensitive implementation of events and workshops organized as part of the Ministry’s RTD programmes was prepared under FEMtech (2005). A guideline on the linguistic equality of women and men in the Ministry’s RTD programmes was also prepared (2005).

FEMtech Studies:

Study on: “Der Frauenanteil in bmvit-Programmen und Maßnahmen zur Erhöhung der Chancengleichheit in künftigen Ausschreibungen” (The Percentage of Women in Programmes Launched by the Federal Ministry for Transport, Innovation and Technology and Measures to Increase Equal Opportunities in Future Tender Processes) (2004). The goal was to gather and analyse gender-specific data on the current situation on the Ministry’s innovation and technology-oriented programmes and to prepare concrete measures to increase the percentage of women in these programmes.

Study on: “Gender Budgeting in Forschungs- und Technologieprogrammen” (Gender Budgeting in Research and Technology Programmes) prepared by Joanneum Research Forschungsgesellschaft mbH. The study analysed the employment situation of women and men in selected programmes launched by the Ministry (2009).
